THE SETTLER'S STORY.

Somehow things were just bound to go wrong,
Till it didn't seem any use trying.
Through the winters so cold and so long,
We scarcely kept cattle from dying.

From the bleak, billy land we called hom (Far northward and eastward it lies) We wandered; long days did we roam, Till at last we run short of supplies.

We stopped in a mountainous state, In a valley, on broad eastern plains; Alas! we had gone there too late; A new comer there ne er attains To be even a member at large

Of a school board, or mender of streets, so on the broad west we made charge; We could not—we would not—retreat. We live here, Maria and I; Just over the way is our home, That house with the tower so high; I planned it, from cellar to dome.

And I'll strike for the west every time, for the west just gave me the start At the first, till I learned how to climb. I wish I were gifted with power

Let each sturdy Kansan arise, Quit bemoaning the dullness and gloom, And with harrow and plowshare and drill,

Sow and reap, not in haphazard way, But work with a plan, work with skill; A form that's ill planned, sir, don't pay. Oh, had I the power to take One farm on a journey with me, Twould make every eastern man quake To gaze on its fertility.

And from the whole east men would rush To buy them a Kansas farm.

Ah, sir; there would be such a crush,

We'd all stand aloof in alarm.

Tis best we can't move farm around: But we ought to help other folks learn if their worth, and then, I'll be bound, We'd hardly know which way to turn.

You see, sir, a man come west, Is known for his worth as a man, poor man's as good as the best; We sneer at the old east plan,

Where they honor a man's decent,-Why look at me sir, do you see! mean to be next president, Though I own no family tree.

In speaking about more elevator capacity for Wichita, Mr. George L. Briefly stated, he refer-St. Louis or Chicago tied up money amounting to cost of grain here and the freight, and the total cost when stored in those cities about double what it would be were it placed in elevators in Wickita. Thus it is evident that the cost of holding grain in Wichita would be much less than to hold the same grain in any city where more cost is added to it. The argument was heard by a number of the members of the board and was considered a most excellent one, showing the selvantages offered by Wichita for grain elevators.

The Chicago Avenue House, Formerly the Riv-erview, Burned-The Building a Total Loss-- A Big Illumination-Hundreds of Excited Spectators.

Early this morning the Chicago avenue house, the large frame hotel just across the Douglas avenue bridge was discovered to be on fire. No alarm came in and the first intimation given the department was from Officer Taylor, who saw the illumination from the corner of Market street and Douglas avenue. The good folks on the West Side are either sound sleepers or were aching for excitement. The department was going west on Douglas at a furious speed in less than three minutes after the cry of fire was given, guidec by the light of the burning building. minutes later the alarm was turned in fo the steamer by the chief, which was promptly on hand drawn by four horses The entire building was in flames when the company was notified, and aithough there was but very little hope of saving it, the boys went to work with a will and fairly deluged it with water. A heavy rain was falling but the fire was so thore started that it had the upper hand of all other elements. Several hundreds of people collected in a very short time but They'll come with their neighbors and there was very little speculating as to the cause of the fire. It was openly stated that the building had been coal oiled and fired and no one was found disposed to think otherwise.

The illumination was so bright that a newspaper could have been read with ease at the east end of the bridge. Aside from the fact that it was a rapid destruction of property it was a grand spectacle. It was impossible to tell where the fire originated as no one could be found who had seen it until the fire had complete possession Several streams of water concentrated on one spot seemed to check it a little, but as soon as the streams were directed to an other portion of the building the first place would break forth again with revengeful fury. An attempt was made to fire this same building on Sunday morning last, but the prompt arrival of the department extinguished the flames before much dam age was done.

On account of the history of the building a strong prejudice exists against it on the West Side and even the best citizens would not express any grief for the loss which was imminent. Its reputation about a year back was not what the best people could approve and doubtless this feeling actuated or rather encouraged the pirit of incendiarism.

At present it is owned by Mr. Wm. wentzell and probably was uninsured. It has been standing unoccupied for some time and the night watchman in charge was absent when the fire broke out. It was last known as the Chicago Avenue

ATTEMPTED BURGLARY.

Mrs. Penrod was awakened out of her sleep about midnight by a noise in the cellar which proved to be some one attempting to effect an entrance through the red to the fact that Kansas grain stored in | Dayton and Roberts streets on the west side, and is only a short distance from neighbors who were aroused by two pistol shots. It seems that Mrs. Penrod had quite a sum of money in her possess intenting to join her husband in a few days in Missouri, and in some way it is supposed this burglar or burglars learne these facts. As soon as she waked up she fired two shots through the floor at random, which alarmed them and they made good their escape. The neighbors came over in a few minutes, but no clue could be found to the parties. They had entered the cellar through a window and were endeavoring to pry a board out of the kitch-en door, thus getting into the main part

This picture shows two laundresses, one at work the other not able to, because her hands are cracked and sore-she has been using soap containing too much alkali. Read Prof. Leeds's report.

Gentlemen:-The sample of "IVORY" Soap which you sent to me for analysis has been received, and you will find analysis herewith. As a result, the "Ivory" Soap while strongly cleansing, leaves the skin soft and pleasant to the touch instead of harsh, uncomfortable, and liable to chap, as results from the use of many common laundry soaps, in which the ratio of uncombined to combined alkali is large. The percentage of uncombined fat in the "IVORY" is very small, hence the lather is clean, white and abundant, with entire absence of oil or grease. There are no injurious substances.

The above considerations show the "IVORY" to be a pure soap and excellent for laundry use.
